MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

By ROBERTA MCCONNELL

When Mary Lindsay-Oliver was a young music teacher and impresario in New York, singer John McCormack told one of her students, "No one can really help you. With a talent that comes by the grace of God, only persistence and hard work can follow to success."

Mary Lindsay-Oliver already knew this truth, but she had framed it more simply in the motto she has used as her plan for life: "Do it."

And with persistence and hard work, coupled with her "do it" motto, Mary Lindsay-Oliver has pursued successfully several careers, though in doing so she has had to cross the ocean 19 times, and found herself in improbable situations that have involved such music greats as Toscanini and La Scala orchestra, and in one instance, the Metropolitan Opera Company, when she decided the mid-west cities of Davenport, Rock Island and Moline needed more good music than they were getting, and set about acquiring it.

Currently teaching piano and voice in Carmel, composing, and writing program notes for the Monterey County Symphony, Mary Lindsay-Oliver, pianist, composer, conductor and impresario, actress, teacher, and friend of the great started her career in the border country of Scotland.

A gifted and well trained singer-pianist, she was undaunted when family financial reverses interrupted her studies. She simply set out for London at the age of 18, as secretary to artist-Louisa Starr Canziani.

From secretary to stage was the next step, and after appearing in light opera and dramatics from London to Glasgow, a longer step took Lindsay-Oliver to New York where she landed in time to hear one of the final performances of Caruso at the Metropolitan, which led her into the firm conviction that there should be music everywhere, in the farm lands of the mid-west as well the Metropolitan in the east.

It was only a short time later, while teaching in Moline, Illinois, where the illness of a brother had called her, that she decided the Tri-Cities of Davenport, Rock Island and Moline should have more music.

Sparkplugging first, the annual Illinois Music Teachers' festival, Lindsay-Oliver had not more than planned that organization to top

Council Dreams Of Business District Girdle - Briefly

Last night the Carmel City Council seriously considered for a few minutes—establishing a 100 foot deep buffer belt encircling the business zone.

A letter from John F. Mackenzie proposed an emergency ordinance establishing a buffer zone (though not necessarily restricted to 100 feet depth—that was a council idea) where "certain types of business such as stores, shops and other commercial uses involving early and late opening and closing hours, heavy traffic congestion, noise and confusion would not be permitted."

Object, to protect the residence district from disturbance and have an anchor to the windward in case the appeals board upholds the alcoholic beverage control board in finding invalid Carmel's zoning law, which restricts liquor stores and on-sale liquor establishments to the center of the business district.

Mackenzie's letter was quoted in April 18 Pine Cone.

City Attorney John Morse recommended against the buffer zone, at the moment. He said Carmel's existing liquor zoning ordinance gives much better protection than a 100 foot buffer belt would, and that he feels Carmel has a fair chance of a favorable ruling from the appeals board. Wait and see.

Councilman Carl Patnude said that he felt such a buffer zone was needed anyway, whatever the state appeals board should rule, and wanted the council to instruct the planning commission to consider such an ordinance right away. Somebody reported that the planning commission was about to dump the entire Livingston Master Plan for Carmel in the council's lap, anyway, and that is well and amply provided with buffer zone.

The wait and see people won, for the moment.

Street Commissioner James Buffington was frustrated in his plans for next year's major street improvement projects. He wanted to cut down to grade, curb, gutter and pave Junipero Street from Second to Third, from Fourth to Fifth and from Ocean to Eighth. This involves cutting out trees, lopping off humps and destroying picturesqueness right and left. The council said no. The council said it was against policy and tradition to destroy the attractiveness of a street until there was an overwhelming demand and need to do so, and there isn't any in this case. Besides, look at Ocean Avenue. (Continued on Page Twelve)

Amendment interim ordinance is the first step in implementing the Lawrence Livingston, Jr. Master Plan for Carmel.

It makes economically impractical the shops below-two apartments above kind of construction that has worked well for Carmel, and forces upon the community large motels and big business buildings.

Also, all habitations, motels, hotels, apartments, etc., will, if the amended ordinance is adopted by the council be allowed only under a conditional use permit throughout the business district. At present habitational use is not conditional.

Required front setbacks in the two business districts for all construction will be a minimum of two and one-half feet from the property line, with staggered setbacks allowed if equal to, or greater in area than, a uniform two and one-half foot setback along the entire front of the property, exclusive of driveways, side yards or walk ways. No front setbacks are required now in the business zones.

The amendment proposes that size of any dwelling unit in C-1 and C-2 shall not exceed 600 square feet per one thousand square feet of land. Four hundred square feet of each demanded 1000 square foot site must be open space, devoted to off-street parking and landscaping. One off-street parking space must be provided for each dwelling unit, with an access driveway and a service area. The planning commission will allow walkways in required open space if they think them reasonably necessary. The same commission jurisdiction will govern other like open space improvements, if the ordinance amendment is finally made law by the council.

Oscar Wilde Comedy, Is Senior Play At Sunset Tonight

The Senior Class at Carmel High School presents Oscar Wilde's The Importance Of Being Earnest tonight at 8:00 o'clock in Sunset Auditorium. They will repeat the play tomorrow night at the same time.

Cecily, the fresh young country girl, is played by Nancy McKay; Linda Teague will portray Gwendolyn, the sophisticated city girl. Young men of the cast are: Paul Prince as Jack and Bruce Newell cast in the role of Algernon. Leslie Geyer is Lady Bracknell; Luraine Deering, Miss Prism; and Bob Potter, Doctor Chasuble. Carey Edson is a maid and Gregg Scherman the valet.

Robert Wilson, the new drama instructor at Carmel High, directs the play. Tickets may be obtained at the door both Thursday and Friday nights or from any member of the Senior Class.

Everybody Kicks At Hike In License Fees Except Man With Animal Act

The Carmel City Council, in a three hour adjourned session Tuesday night, progressed three pages in the 25 page new business license ordinance. They have reached page 20. What held them up? Carmel business members didn't want their business license fees increased... well, not that much, anyway.

First snag in the proceedings: John Hudelson, plumbing contractor, didn't think he should pay twice, under his fixed fee contractor's license and under the sliding scale gross sales license, for the same green bathtub he might install in John Doe's house, for instance. The council didn't either. The thing to do was to work out legal wording so that Mr. Hudelson would pay for the bathtub only once, but nobody could put it in plain prose that would meet all contingencies. After an hour and a half of worrying the bone around, the council presented it to City Attorney John Morse: "John, you and John Hudelson get together tomorrow sometime and work out the wording. You know what we want."

Pianist Feature Of Music Society Free Concert On May 13

California pianist, Janet Graham appears on Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock in Sunset Auditorium under the auspices of the Carmel Music Society. Tickets for the concert, free of charge, may be obtained at local Peninsula music stores.

Miss Graham has played two European concert tours, appeared in the larger United States cities and with the Vancouver Symphony in Canada.

San Francisco music critic, Alfred Frankenstein wrote of Janet Graham's Beethoven playing, "She does it all with the rich and varied color, the power and size and firm polyphonic clarity that are so characteristic of the school in which she was trained. Best of all, perhaps, is her Schnabel-like way in slow movements, for she plays these profound pieces with just the right subtle rubato and just the right singing tone to send an audience straight up into heaven."

Miss Graham, continues Frankenstein, "possesses the secret of an interpreter equal to the task set by Beethoven's genius." He further acclaims Janet Graham as "one of the most gifted, intelligent, and brilliant pianists in the West."

They proceeded like wildfire through Section 435.12, Games, Amusements (Carnival, Sideshow, Circus) "For every person, firm, or corporation conducting, managing or carrying on the business of exhibiting, showing or letting the use of any microscope, phonograph, kinetoscope, biograph, projectoscope, or other instrument or machine of like character; lung tester, muscle tester, galvanic battery, weighing machine; ball, knife, or ring toss or throwing, and all other devices of similar character not otherwise herein named, the license tax shall be the sum of $20.00 per day," because there was no person, firm or corporation, conducting, managing, etc., any microscope, kinetoscope, biograph, lung tester, ring tossing or (Continued on Page Twelve)

CCAL TRACK FINALS AT SALINAS SATURDAY

Eleven Coast Counties Athletic League schools will send their finest track athletes to Salinas High School oval this Saturday afternoon in quest of medals and ribbons which go to the more talented performers. As in the past few seasons, the big Salinas High squad will be favored to pick up most of the points and run off with the team championship. The Cowboys have won the meet five out of the last six years and Coach Bill Kearney's thinclads appear to be the best of the lot this year. Of the results of the Big Four and Little Seven Meets it appears that King City and Watsonville are the only schools capable of offering the Cowboys a mild challenge. The King City lads ran off with the Little Seven Meet in convincing fashion but the competition wasn't as pressing as the Mustangs will meet when they face the Cowboys.

Coach Buzz Rainer, Carmel High's enthusiastic track mentor, has hopes that his Padres will pick up a few medals in Saturday's meet but the Carmel squad is too thin to offer a serious challenge for the team title. Phil White, sophomore pole-vaulter, who has been flirting with 12 feet this season, stands a good chance to pick up some points in his favorite event and raise the school record which he already holds. Hampton Stewart, ace 440 runner, will push some of the good ones in the one-lap event and should finish in the money. Art Wilkerson and Billy Wallace will offer stubborn resistance in the 880 and mile and could pick up a pair of third place medals. Last week at King City in the Little Seven Meet, Wallace ran his first mile race and picked up second place with a fine 4:52 effort.

CARMEL HIGH SWIMMERS PLACE SECOND IN CCAL MEET

Unable to combat the superior depth thrown at them by the victorious Watsonville squad, Carmel High's valiant swim team had to settle for second place in last Saturday's CCAL swim meet. The Carmel natators defeated the Wildcats in a regular season dual meet but couldn't match the Watsonville entry list in the big one. Watsonville finished with a total of 74 points to 60 for Carmel, 56 for Monterey, and 34 for Pacific Grove.

Carmel's only first place in the meet was garnered by Les Laky in the 100-yard breaststroke as he zipped the distance in 1:14.2 to set a new school record in the frog-kick event. Other point-getters for the Padres were Bob Goldwater, third in the 50; Boone Morrison, fifth in the 100 breast; Bob Durbrow, second in the 220 and third in the 100 free; Bill Hicks, second in the individual medley and third in the 200 free; Andy Elliott, fifth in the diving; Don Smith, second in the backstroke; Pete Rice, fourth in the backstroke; and Fred Bruggeman, third place in the medley relay.

Watsonville also swept to first place in the lightweight division, accumulating 85 points to 54 for Monterey, 39 for Pacific Grove, and 21 for Carmel.

Next action for the Carmel natators is slated for this Saturday morning when they journey to Santa Clara for the big North Coast Section Meet.

SAN CARLOS AGENCY AND BOYS TOWN TIED FOR LEAD

After six games in Carmel's newly-formed Little League, the standings find the San Carlos Agency and Boys Town locked up in first place with two wins and one loss apiece. Sport Shop and Pilot Market are fighting to keep out of the cellar with 1-2 records. Competition has been mighty even in all the games played and any one of the teams in the cozy four-team league could come with a surge and win the first-half title.

Tonight at 6:00 o'clock, Pilot Market will cross bats with the San Carlos Agency to wind up the second week's play. Next Tuesday night's game will be the crucial in the league standings as Boys Town tangles with San Car-

PADRES EDGE MONTEREY IN EXTRA-INNING GAME

Carmel High's varsity baseball team came through with three back-to-back singles in the bottom of the eighth inning to score the tie-breaking run which beat Monterey, 3 to 2, in the season's biggest upset on the Monterey Peninsula. The oft-beaten Padres were considered no match for the high-flying Tornadoes but the Carmel lads played their best game of the year to earn the victory. Tim O'Shea, a fast-improving lefthander, threw a three-hitter at the Tornadoes and struck out 11 while going the eight-inning route.

Friday afternoon the Padres will journey to Hollister for a league game with the undefeated Haybalers. This one should be a great pitching duel between Hollister's Tony Aguire and Carmel's Tim O'Shea. Aguire has won 7 consecutive league games this season and is considered the hottest pitching prospect to hit the CCAL since Henry Overin was tossing no-hitters for Carmel.

While the varsity teams are squaring off at Memorial Park in Hollister, the junior-varsity clubs will tussle at Bardarson Field at Carmel. The Carmel junior-varsity clipped the Hayseeds in the first meeting this year and will be going all out to sweep the series.

Ada Winslow

Word was received this week of the death of Mrs. Ada Winslow on May 3 in a Riverside, California, hospital after a short period of failing health.

Mrs. Winslow lived in Carmel from 1935 to 1942. Her daughter, Bonney, is the wife of Ronald Cockburn, who, from 1932-1939 was co-owner of the Pine Cone with his father, the late James L. Cockburn. Both Mrs. Winslow and her husband, the late Sherman Winslow, were associated with the Cockburns in running the paper during the time they lived in Carmel.

Ada Winslow was a gentle person with a gay sense of humor and quiet strength of character. Her kindly, unselfish understanding of human beings and thoughtful deeds endeared her to everyone and helped those whom she knew to live a happier life.

She is survived by her daughter, Bonney, with whom she lived; a grandson, Andy Cockburn; a granddaughter, Mrs. Lorraine DuVall; ah DuVall, all of Tujunga, California.

Her younger daughter, Barbara Winslow, nationally known tennis player, died in 1942.

Funeral services were held this week in Riverside.

Lindsay-Oliver Benefit Concert For Monterey County Symphony

In one of the most ambitious recitals of the spring season, Mary Lindsay-Oliver, composer, pianist and dedicated musician was heard in a benefit performance for the Monterey County Symphony, Tuesday evening, April 30, at the Nix Studio Theatre.

Before a representative audience of Carmel music lovers, Miss Lindsay-Oliver began the program with concert numbers by Chopin, Schumann and Liszt, displaying, particularly in the Schumann Romanze, the sort of musicianship that prompted the Davenport, Iowa Times to report of her playing, "You feel that you have received something, not merely heard and seen."

Following the opening group, were compositions of Lindsay-Oliver, notable among which was a Berceuse Trio for violin, cello and piano which followed a simple but greatly effective contrapuntal melody line.

Additional instrumental works included numbers for piano and violin, piano and cello and piano and clarinet, in which Miss Lindsay-Oliver was assisted by Helen Shutes, cellist and Jay Stock, clarinetist, all members of the Monterey County Symphony.

As a highlight on the program Gregory Millar appeared, as tenor soloist rather than in his more familiar capacity as symphony conductor. Accompanied by Roslyn Franz, his wife, who has twice appeared as guest soloist with the symphony, Millar sang three of the songs of Lindsay-Oliver.

Memorable in the song group were those titled Beloved and The Soul of You and Me.

Concluding, Miss Lindsay-Oliver played several compositions for piano, one of which was the prelude to her large orchestral work, titled The New Day, the score of which is presently being considered for presentation by the BBC in London.

In a short talk following the program, Miss Lindsay-Oliver expressed appreciation for the support of the symphony members who appeared with her, as did Eben Whittlesey, Symphony Board president, who spoke for the symphony in acknowledging gratitude to Miss Lindsay-Oliver for her contribution and to Dudley Nix for the use of the studio theatre.

—Roberta McConnell.

Ed. Note: Miss Lindsay-Oliver presented $100 to Symphony Board president Whittlesey on Monday evening, proceeds of the benefit performance.

Former Blue Bird "Team" Producing Favorite Dishes

Carmel's oldest restaurant, The Bluebird, again is in operation under the ownership-management of Sarah Anderson, Margaret Gibbons, Marjorie Hamer and Ruhe Linn, all of whom previously operated it from 1948 to 1952.

In addition to luncheon and dinner, the Ocean Avenue restaurant now offers a "coffee shop" type of service so that Carmelites may drop in for coffee and between-meals snacks. Such well-known Bluebird specialties as pot roast, glazed fresh-fruit tarts, Kosher corned beef served on Ukrainian Pumpnickel bread sent down daily from San Francisco, homemade desserts, hot breads, and Char-glo broiled steaks and chops are back again on Bluebird menus. Harry Chapman, the original Bluebird chef, and Mrs. Myrtle Howard, the restaurant's former pastry cook, have returned to the staff, so that the most familiar and popular Bluebird dishes again can be enjoyed.

The Bluebird, started in the 1920s by Mrs. Mabel Sampson, passed through the ownership of various persons, coming under the guidance of the present four owners in 1948. In 1952, they transferred their culinary interests to the Gourmet Shop in the Pine Inn building. Under other management The Bluebird was destroyed by fire two years ago and rebuilt, but in its same Ocean Avenue location. The present building, completely modernized, and offering the most efficient of kitchen, food storage and preparation facilities, has been redecorated by Miss Anderson, Gibbons, Hamer and Linn.

A substantial background in food and restaurant operation is possessed by all four owners. During World War II, Marjorie Hamer, Sarah Anderson and Margaret Gibbons served with the Red Cross in France and England, operating Service Club Canteens. Miss Anderson and Miss Gibbons at one time owned a French restaurant in Tucson. During World War II, Ruhe Linn served as a volunteer with the American Red Cross, and in an executive post with the War Manpower Commission in New York. All four joined forces first in their former operation of The Bluebird, and later in the Gourmet Shop. Miss Anderson presently is in Italy, as part of a round-the-world jaunt, to be concluded in June. Since selling the Gourmet Shop, Ruhe Linn and Margaret Gibbons have driven to Mexico, and to Central America as far as Costa Rica. Both lived for three years in Japan and also have traveled round the world.

GENERAL YOUNG TO RETIRE

Lieutenant General Robert N. Young, Commanding General of the Sixth United States Army with Headquarters at the Presidio of San Francisco, will retire September 30 after more than 35 years of Army Service, the Department of Army announced.

General Young, who has commanded the Sixth Army since July 1, 1955 will be succeeded by Lieutenant General Lemuel Mathewson, presently commander of the V Corps, US Army in Europe. He will take over command of the Sixth Army on October 1.

General Young said that he plans to retire somewhere in the East, probably in Ashville, N. C.

AFRICA TALK FRIDAY

Sponsored by the World Affairs Council of the Monterey Peninsula and the Carmel Adult School, Dr. Julian Friedman of the University of California will talk on The Rhodesias, or Central African Federation, on Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock in Carmel High School cafeteria. The talk is one of an African study series, open to the public without charge, planned by Mrs. Howard Clark.

Dr. Friedman is a lecturer, author and world traveller. He grathey have preferred in the past," said the owners. "We like both visitors and residents to consider The Bluebird a friendly, informal place where they may drop in for a cup of coffee as well as for luncheon and dinner."

ANNUAL AUDUBON MEETING

Fifty-Seven members and friends of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society met last Sunday at the Hatton Ranch in Calera Canyon. The early birdwalk discovered some 50 species of birds.

Picnic lunch was enjoyed at tables under the trees. It was such a wonderful day that the regular meeting was held outside to the drone of bees in the eucalyptus blossoms. After the reading of the minutes the chairman of the nominating committee, Mrs. Carr Thatcher, read the slate which was unanimously approved: president, Mr. Fred Beidelman of Pacific Grove; vice-president, Mr. Joseph Carithers of Carmel Valley. The other officers and committees were reappointed. The two Bobs—Parsons and Bunney—will edit The Sanderling beginning with the September number. Abbott Silva announced the dates of Tours for the coming season but said no lecturers had been named as yet.

Lindsay-Oliver's Success Formula

activity when she took the inaugural steps that led to the formation of the Tri-Cities Symphony, at present an institution which includes many of her former pupils.

She enlarged her own studio to include work in piano, organ and voice and she accepted a post as organist at Christ Church in Moline.

She directed choral groups, formed music groups and gave concerts. And with the beginning of World War I, she made the first move toward her subsequent career as an impresario, with the decision, that at that time more than ever, music was needed, especially for the men in uniform on the Rock Island Arsenal.

As a member of the National Council of Defense, Lindsay-Oliver was one of the few women ever accorded a pass to the Arsenal, and with that pass she gave the soldiers more music than most of them thought existed in the Cook County farmlands.

A predecessor to the present USO shows, Lindsay-Oliver took every available bit of talent to the Arsenal for performance.

From local talent she branched into entire light opera companies from Chicago, and finally to New York to secure such artists as Alma Gluck, Madame Schumann-Heink and Galli-Curci, whom she greatly resembled, incidentally, and for whom she was often mistaken.

The soldiers loved the diet of music. The Tri-Cities loved it and the little lass from the Scots borders loved it. She planned programs and secured artists. She wrote the program notes and the newspaper publicity. She mapped subscription campaigns and one day she decided the time had come for the Scotti Opera Company from the Metropolitan.

Some heads shook in the Tri-Cities. After all, the Metropolitan performing in Davenport, Rock Island and Moline? Even such impresarios as Judson or Hurok would hesitate, people said, but Lindsay-Oliver didn't hesitate. She had brought Toscanini and La Scala orchestras to Davenport, Rock Island and Moline, so why not the Scotti Opera from the Metropolitan. So she set out for a vacation in England, by way of New York and the Met.

"I don't quite know what they thought," she recalls, "but I just announced that I wanted the Metropolitan in the Tri-Cities."

"One of Scotti's managers asked what sort of a guarantee could be made, since the company never appeared without a guarantee, and most especially in such musically dubitable areas as Davenport, Rock Island and Moline.

"I told him I wouldn't make any guarantee at all. That I couldn't make any guarantee, but that I would exhaust every effort to provide a full house, and that I'd play percentages with him.

"I told him to think it over and let me know. I was on my way to England."

"Audacious?", Miss Lindsay-Oliver chuckles, "perhaps!"

But two days later, a wireless was delivered on shipboard stating, "Scotti accepts your terms."

And whether he accepted out of pique or amazement at the courageous Scotch lass is a matter of conjecture. But it is a matter of record that under the guiding hand of Mary Lindsay-Oliver, Scotti and the Metropolitan Opera Company arrived to "play percentages" in Davenport, Rock Island and Moline.

A matter of record too, is that from this initiation, Lindsay-Oliver became one of the original members of the National Concert Managers Association which took her from Cook County, Illinois, to New York, where she produced concerts throughout the east, where she wrote program notes for great music and great musicians and where she presented such artists as Rachmaninoff, Galli-Curci, Tetrazzini and McCormack, as well as innumerable Symphonies, the New York Philharmonic, Boston, Chicago.

It was from New York also that she wrote for the New York Times and for musical magazines; that she instituted The Salon, a small concert group patterned after European Salons to introduce fresh talent, and continued throughout the teaching and composing which has brought her back to Carmel after an absence of twenty years, convinced that Carmel could well become one of the musical centers of the country, and convinced as John McCormack stated, "that no one can ever really help you... only persistence and hard work can follow success."

Or more succinctly, as Lindsay-Oliver put it, and as she lives it, "Do It!"

Helena Burton

Mrs. Helena Bingham Burton died Wednesday morning in a local rest home. She was born on February 19, 1870, in Harvard, Illinois.

Mrs. Burton came to Carmel in 1931. She lived at Lincoln and Tenth Streets and in Robles Del Rio with two sisters who survive her, Mrs. Cassie Heiliger and Miss Amy C. Bingham.

Funeral services were held this morning in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea Crematorium in Pacific Grove. Dr. Joseph Ewing of the Carmel Presbyterian Church officiating.

Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Rose Resnick Tells Lions Club About Enchanted Hills

Rose Resnick, founder of Enchanted Hills National Foundation, pianist and lecturer, spoke and played at the Carmel Lions Club regular weekly meeting on Tuesday evening in Cypress West Hotel.

Miss Resnick, who is blind, holds a B. A. degree from Hunter College in New York, a general teaching certificate, and a master's degree from the University of California. She described Enchanted Hills for Lions Club members. It is a 340 acre ranch and resort near Napa, first used as a summer camp for blind children, now open to blind adults also. The program includes boating, swimming, fishing, hiking, hobby shop, nature, folk and social dancing, songs and campfires, all bringing happiness and a pathway to the seeing world for blind people. Miss Resnick told the Lions. The Lions Clubs of the Monterey Peninsula recently sponsored a play in Pacific Grove to raise funds for Enchanted Hills.

Rose Resnick is executive director of Enchanted Hills. She was accompanied to Carmel by Nina Brandt, co-director of the camp. Lion Ernest Bixler arranged the program.

Time Running Out To Get Absent Ballots For School Election

Ted Fehring, running uncontested for one vacancy on the Carmel Unified School District Board, will close the bars, liquor stores and "package goods" shelves in the groceries and drug-stores from 7:00 to 7:00 o'clock May 17. That's election day.

Applications for absentee ballots must be in the county school superintendent's office by May 12. The application blanks may be obtained from Carmel School Superintendent Stuart Mitchell.

The vacancy in the school board is created by the expiring term of J. O. Handley, who after several terms on the board, did not wish to run for election again.

Another vacancy will occur within the next month with the resignation of Dr. Roderick Clayton, who is leaving for research at Oxford and in Norway. The remaining year of his term will be filled by an appointee of County School Superintendent Gladys Stone. She will be guided by the recommendation of the other Carmel board members.

Larry Rose Accepts

Carmel City Clerk Larry Rose has received an invitation to attend the Northern California conference of the Association of Governmental Accountants in Sacramento, May 15-16, and he intends to attend. The Living Room A Must Performance At Circle Theatre

By Max Tadlock

With a splendid cast and excellent staging, Charles Thomas brought the Golden Bough Circle Theatre back to serious drama Friday night after what seemed an interminable succession of F. Hugh Herbert flosses. This will be welcome news to those who like more than just escape fare.

In The Living Room, author Graham Greene exposes the raw nerve ends of a family dominated by death and unable to find hope, even in the sanctity of the Church. When a young niece and her paramour enter, trying to re-arrange their lives so that they can find happiness with each other, they are forced to face the moral problem they are creating for themselves and the others about them. Therein lies the play—a concern with life and an obsession with death.

Janet Fleuhr as the young niece, Rose Pemberton, is a fine and accomplished actress. She is dramatic without excessive histrionics—a necessary ingredient in theatre-in-the-round where the audience is easily embarrassed unless properly moved. Her paramour and the executor of her parents' estate is Michael Dennis, played most ably by Clifton Robertson.

Despite the playwright's obvious focus on the problems of the young couple, the audience focus in the main was on the two old aunts and the uncle of the girl. There are two reasons for this: one is the bizarreness of the household itself, and the other is the superb performances turned in by those playing these roles. Bud Houghton played his entire part in a wheel chair as the incapacitated priest, Father James Browne, no longer able to perform his duties. Ruth Ware as Helene Browne was an Inquisitor in the drab clothing of a 19th Century spinster, obsessed with death and ferreting out evil to secure her own position. Easily star of the evening was Peg Miner as the elder of the two spinsters, the feeble Teresa Browne. Her performance is a joy to behold.

One of the most difficult roles in the play because of its short time on stage is that of the cast off wife Mrs. Dennis. In one short scene we see her whole married life unfold through her actions. Kaye Benson does an adequate job here although perhaps someone with more experience might have strengthened the part. As the maid Mary, Nancy Lofton gives a believable and properly drab characterization.

The staging is typical of the excellent work director Thomas does, particularly when he is working with Victoriana. Also worthy of special note is the makeup and the costuming, Rhoda Johnson being responsible for the latter.

With pleasure I recommend wholeheartedly The Living Room as a must performance. But get a babysitter for the children. It's pretty heavy going for young minds.

Profils Du Monde Opens Carmel Branch

In association with Mrs. Lawrence Sullivan, Profils du Monde, exclusive importers of fashion originals, jewelry, gifts and women's accessories have opened a fourth shop, this time in Carmel, as supplement to other Profils du Monde stores already operating in Beverly Hills, Palm Springs and San Francisco. Mrs. Lawrence Sullivan of Carmel is the owner of the local branch which features unique dresses fashioned from authentic Indian saris, gowns, jewelry and accessories imported from Hong Kong, Kashmir, Jerusalem and other areas of the Middle and Near East. All fashions created from imported fabrics are designed and styled in Beverly Hills with due regard to the requirements of the American woman's figure and taste.

In addition to the imports, Mrs. Sullivan will introduce an American collection of hand-embroidered all wool jersey suits designed by Agnes Reed, with hand-work provided by the Sisters of the Good Shepherd order. Mrs. Sullivan also is including in her Profils du Monde shop a collection of authentic American Indian dresses brought in from Arizona.

Mrs. Sullivan, who is owner of the Carmel Florists shop in association with her husband, has taken over the premises occupied formerly by Heritage Antiques on Lincoln near Ocean Avenue for her dress shop.

As well as day and evening dresses fashioned from hand-woven Indian saris, she is importing (through the resources of Profils du Monde) unusual accessories such as jackets, handbags and jewelry bearing the exotic imprint of their points of origin: Hong Kong, Egypt, Jerusalem and such fabled Indian cities as Srinagar in Kashmir. Some of the jewelry to be shown copies Egyptian museum treasures. There are frocks of Egyptian cotton and Kashmir cloth. The Indian textiles used come from India's Cottage Industries and represent the hand-work of Indian men and boy craftsmen. (No women do such work.)

Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan plan to continue operation of their Carmel Florists shop.

WATER

The Most Important Thing In Life

No matter how carefully designed and constructed, a public water system is never completed. Water mains must inevitably follow a city's growth, and in most cases, must actually precede it.

There are three principal reasons for extending or increasing the size of water mains:

- First, to serve new territory;
- Second, to improve service to territory already being supplied;
- Third, to install permanent construction in advance of street improvement.

Expenditures of the first class, when wisely made, produce additional revenue from new water sales. To some extent this is true of the second class. But rarely, if ever, is additional revenue produced by an expenditure of the third category. Therefore, such expenditures are regarded as contributions to the common good. Consumers are assured that California Water & Telephone Company will continue its policy of installing new and larger mains, fire hydrants and other facilities to maintain the highest possible degree of water service.

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

Two Italian Intermezzi operas, produced by The Opera Work-Shop, were presented by the Monterey Peninsula College, assisted by the Carmel Chamber Music Society Saturday and Sunday. Compared with the concert form of The Marriage of Figaro, last year, much more developed achievement was evident in Pergolesi's La Serva Padrona and Wolf-Ferrari's Secret of Suzanne. Both were sung and acted with spirited participation, though vocally in the hands of only two singers for each.

La Serva Padrona, composed over 200 years ago, has been considered a forerunner of the French Opera-Comique. Its humor and wit were well put forth by experienced Ted Cross and JoAnn Duncan, while Morris Dill, as a mute, helped the intrigue with his pantomime. Uberto is being hoodwinked by a designing maid, Serpina, whose soprano was a telling foil against the heavier, irate emotion of Uberto, the master of the house. The singing and comedy were well received. The charming music was played by the chamber orchestra we know in the Carmel Chamber Music Society concerts, and the whole conducted by energetic Dr. Harvey Marshall, whose work for the operas has been unremitting. Rehearsed by Gilbert Boyer, the members of the orchestra were Jerald Slavich, David Hagemeyer, Rev. H. M. M. Nichols, Eiko Yoshizato, Charlotte Perry and Shiela Webster, violins; Marie Sale and Geraldine O'Conner, violas; Edwin Culver, bass; and Joseph and Betty Axup, french horns; with Marilyn Coe at the piano—all responding to Mr. Marshall's baton.

The Secret of Suzanne is a gem, for besides the lighter Italian expression it contains dramatic strength and sonority. Gert Muser who directs the Opera Work-Shop sang and acted Count Gil with the authority of his professional experience in Europe. Joan Jenkins as the Countess, whose 'secret' of smoking almost wrecks the marriage, has a charming stage presence and histrionic ability, and her vocal capacity is growing. At times, however, the voice was a bit strident and we missed some of the lovely lyric purity she showed in her performance last year, but which suited the hysterical character of the part. Both singers were enthusiastically recalled before the curtain, as well as Helen Petersen at the piano, who most intelligently performed the instrumental score, focusing all moods and action with clearly supporting intent. Both operas were distinguished presentations and great credit to all concerned, including Morris Dill again as the servant Sante.

The second act from Fledermaus and fourth from Rigoletto with excerpts from other operas will be given on May 17 and 19, though such nearness to the final Symphony Concert on May 20 is a pity. Surely, when the dates of a series are known early in the season, overlapping could be avoided, for in this type of community it does not encourage adequate audiences.

The Musical Art Club of the Monterey Peninsula opened its new season recently at the Carmel Art Association Galleries with a piano recital by Ellen Mayer from San Jose, formerly of Germany. It is the policy of the club to give opportunity to younger or nearby artists, and their choice of Ellen Mayer provided a classical program of Bach, Beethoven, Clementi, Chopin and Debussy, in all of which Miss Mayer exhibited a technique of facile dexterity and strong sonority.

The Beethoven Appassionata Sonata is a "war-horse" for any pianist and in this case got its bit between its teeth! Nevertheless its three movements proved an interesting performance from the technical standpoint and fully deserved the applause and recalls earned.

The first performance here of the Clementi Sonata (original edition of which is in the fortunate hands of Frank de Bellis of San Francisco and had been lent the pianist) the Bach Fantasia in C minor, a Chopin Nocturne and Impromptu, as well as the Debussy L'Isle Joyeuse and three extra numbers were all given with brilliancy if somewhat similar keyboard consciousness and tonality. They could have been enhanced with the contrast of even one slow, less scintillating movement. However, program making is the individual's prerogative and one was grateful for the performance given. It was enjoyed by the members present who congratulated the artist in the social hour that followed. Joseph Axup, now president of the Club, addressed the audience before the program.

The Bartletts, New Do-Nut Den Owners

Mr. and Mrs. Gene R. Bartlett (Bettie and Bill Bartlett) are the new owners of the Do-Nut Den, Carmel restaurant on Mission Street, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues. As in the past, the popular coffee, snack and luncheon shop will serve coffee and doughnuts from 7:00 in the morning to 7:00 in the evening and short orders including sandwiches, salads and home-made soups from lunch time onward.

Bettie and Bill Bartlett have added several new varieties to the Den's doughnut selection. Applesauce, Devil's Food and Nut Crunch are but three of the novelty doughnuts now available in addition to the old favorites of sugar, cake, cinnamon, plain and raised types.

Originally from Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett came here first with the Army. Captain Bartlett is in the Signal Corps, stationed at Fort Ord, and slated to retire from the Service in July. They have a 16 year old son, Gene, II, a student at Monterey Union High School. The family plans soon to buy a home in Carmel and to make the ownership-management of the Do-Nut Den their permanent occupation when Captain Bartlett is released from the Service.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

GLEN CANYON DAM
An article in the Christian Science Monitor of April 13, written by Kimmis Hendrick, Chief of the Monitor's Pacific News Bureau, with the heading, Glen Canyon Dam Setup Hit, brings to the fore once more many questions about power dams in the western half of the country. These questions were debated vigorously during the controversy over the Colorado River Storage Project, with especial reference to Echo Park Dam. Conservationists finally won their point in regard to the latter dam and it was deleted from the bill, but the arguments that they advanced at that time are even stronger today and will continue to grow in importance as new developments in the power situation come to the fore.

Glen Canyon Dam was not formally opposed by the conservation organizations because it did not violate any national park area, as Echo Park dam would have done, but many conservationists were privately much disturbed over the decision to build it. It was a power dam with no irrigation features and was supposed to operate at a profit large enough to pay eventually, perhaps over a period of 50 to 75 years, for other features of the project that could not be justified economically. In the building of it one of the most beautiful and wild primitive canyons in the United States will be flooded. Many people who have run the river through the canyon consider it to be of national park calibre.

Mr. Hendrick in his article points out that during the long period of construction of Glen Canyon Dam the flow of water will be cut so low by the Bureau of Reclamation that the Hoover Dam power plant, lower on the river, will be almost useless. He also describes other objections that Southern California, largely dependent on the Hoover Dam for power and water, have to the project.

The ironical feature of the whole project is that according to a statement recently made by Hatfield Chilson, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, in an address before the North American Wildlife Conference, over a period of the next 20 years hydropower will decline in the United States from its present 20 percent of the total power to 8½ percent, its place being taken mainly by atomic reactor plants which will over the period supply 14½ percent. Since the Glen Canyon Dam is not expected to pay out for the project in less than 50 years, a person with no knowledge of engineering can figure out for himself that it will be obsolete long before that.

Already improvements in the construction of steam electric plants in the Ohio River Valley have made hydropower uneconomical for the aluminum plants located there. Why, then, conservationists ask, with steam electric and atomic reactor power coming so fast to the fore, should we sacrifice our best river valleys in the West for construction of soon-to-be-outdated power dams?

Glen Canyon, of course, is lost, but Idaho's Clearwater River basin, now threatened by the proposed Bruce's Eddy dam, could be saved, if congressmen could look ahead far enough in their planning for the future of industrial power.

Gordon Stoddard Writes Alaska Book Shirley Does Photos

Gordon Stoddard went homesteading in Alaska, and wrote a book about it, Go North, Young Man. A reviewer's copy is on its way to the Pine Cone, which the book editor looks forward to receiving, since Gordon is "a Carmel kid" who grew up here, graduating from Sunset and Carmel High.

Shirley, Gordon's sister, a journalist and photographer, also a Carmelite, did the photos for Gordon's book. She expects to be back on the Monterey Peninsula in July.

Binfords and Mort of Portland, Oregon, the publishers, include Gordon's book in their new Alaska list with the following description:

"Go North Young Man: How a young West Coaster forsakes civilization for the rugged satisfaction of homesteading in Alaska. Not since Mark Twain has there been a writer to match him for provocative wit, originality, and the knack of catching the heady flavor of a lusty new land."

Films, Talk at Town House

On Wednesday afternoon three short color films of Canada will be shown at Town House by Mr. Leslie Deck. The first, Mother of Rivers, shows the Columbia ice fields and headwaters of the Columbia river. Mountain Moods pictures light and shadow among Rocky Mountain peaks, while Let's Go Fishing follows the trout streams. The films are accompanied by unusually appropriate music. The program from 3:00-4:00 o'clock will be followed by tea.

On Monday afternoon the May meeting of the Booklovers will be held at 3:00 o'clock at Town House. The speaker will be Mrs. Mabel Grey Gehring, writer and world traveler, who is spending a few weeks in Carmel. Her topic will be The Myths and Legends of Scotland. A native of Scotland, Mrs. Gehring spent her youth in Glasgow and Paisley and on an island off the Scottish west coast which she has used as a background for the stories and sketches in her book On a Scottish Island.

Mrs. Diveley Gives Cast Party

Mrs. Rhea Diveley, director at the First Theatre, entertained the cast and production staff of the The Great Diamond Robbery at her home on Saturday evening. It is Mrs. Diveley's custom to give a party for those connected with each of the shows she directs. Thirty-six guests gathered at her home on Saturday night and entertained one another with accordion, piano and guitar music and singing.

Home From Honeymoon

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Menes returned to Carmel on Sunday after honeymooning for a week in Los Angeles and Las Vegas. They were married in Carmel Mission on April 28, at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon by the Right Reverend Monsignor Michael D. O'Connell.

Mrs. Menes is the former Elizabeth Yarra. She was given in marriage by her uncle Mr. Benito Yeban and wore a full-skirted, floor-length, white Chantilly lace dress under a waist length, long sleeved, fitted jacket of the same lace made with a Peter Pan collar and fastened with a row of tiny buttons extending in front from neckline to waist. Her elbow length white net veil was held in place by a crown of pearls and she carried a sheaf of white flowers arranged with lilies of the valley.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Thelma Roldan in an orchid lace dress with matching small net cap, and a bouquet of assorted flowers in the same shade. Bridesmaids were Dahlia Gutierrez and Tessie Requiro wearing blue and pink taffeta dresses similar in style to that worn by the matron of honor, large matching blue net picture hats and carrying bouquets of carnations.

The two little flower girls, Joy Gonzales and Jean Israel, were dressed alike in short full-skirted white dresses and carried nosegay bouquets. Ringbearer was Eleseo Macahilig.

Jose Gonzales was best man for the groom and ushers were Bert Macahilig and Ermites Mercés.

The American Legion Hall was gay with arrangements of spring flowers for the reception held at 7:00 o'clock in the evening. White gardenias were used to decorate the table from which the wedding cake was served.

After the bride and groom cut the cake they left on their honeymoon. For traveling the bride changed to a brown silk suit, beige shoes and bag and a white hat.

The young couple are living at Lincoln and Sixth Streets. Mrs. Menes is a graduate of Carmel High School and Monterey Peninsula College.

Peter Lyon Home in August

Mayor Horace Lyon and Mrs. Lyon are looking forward to August when their son, Peter, will return from two years overseas duty in Germany. Also eagerly anticipating the August return are Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Danelz, parents of Peter's wife, Marcia. Peter and Marcia have just returned to Frankfurt, where Peter is attached to military intelligence, from a two weeks' leave trip to Denmark, Holland and Belgium.

Peter graduated from the Russian department of the Army Language School before going to Germany and took his basic training at Fort Ord. Before entering the Army he attended Stanford University and Carmel High School.

Nina Force Married

Making their home in Pebble Beach are Mr. and Mrs. Willis F. Lynn (Mrs. Nina Force) who were married on April 12 at the First Presbyterian Church in Las Vegas. Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Schultz of Pebble Beach and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Springer of San Francisco attended the ceremony performed by the Reverend Walter W. Hanne.

The couple spent their honeymoon in Ojai Valley.

Mrs. Lynn, has lived in Pebble Beach for four years. She was formerly married to the late Leon F. Force, Pacific Northwest lumberman.

Mr. Lynn is a retired Oakland contractor, who previously resided at Rio Del Mar. He is a member of the Pajaro Valley Country Club, Pajaro Valley Rod and Gun Club, and staff commodore of the Elkhorn Yacht Club.

Here From Toronto

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Richardson met the plane on Sunday morning which brought to Carmel from Toronto, Canada, their eldest son, Richard John, his wife Enid, and the couple's two children, Beth, four years old, and John Scott, two. Grandparents Dick and Babs Richardson were meeting grandson John Scott for the first time, and all the Toronto Richardsons were on their first visit to California.

Sunday afternoon Carmel's Dick Richardson drove his son, an executive in the Imperial Oil Company, to the airport to catch a plane for Vancouver, British Columbia, where he will remain for three weeks then return to join his family here for the rest of their month's stay.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a white ribbon knit sheath dress. A face veil fell from her small white velvet bandeau hat and she carried two white orchids arranged with white ribbons falling into streamers.

Lorraine Oberholzer was the bride's attendant in a blue silk sheath dress, matching hat with short veil and carrying a bouquet of blue and white carnations. Robert Mehninger performed best man duties for the groom.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian
A book by Brian Connell is called A Watcher on the Rhine, and the subtitle An Appraisal of Germany Today. It may be that this book will tell you little about the German national character which you did not already know, but it is well worth reading.

Gilbert Highet is a man of letters, a writer, a lecturer, a professor of classical literature at Columbia University. On a recent trip to Italy he visited the scenes of the Greco-Roman survivals, and his new book, Poets in a Landscape, is a result of the trip. In it he discusses the lives and works of seven poets, and to this he has added a final chapter on Rome. The book is illustrated with photographs taken by Mr. Highet, and the whole thing provides the groundwork for some delightful hours of reading enjoyment.

A sharp and witty book by Russell Lynes is entitled A Surfeit of Honey. In it he discusses the comfortable life of Americans today. He asks, "Where did the upper class go? And did anyone notice it leave the room?" And then he proceeds to answer his questions with both wit and wisdom. He asked a number of people, "What is a lady?" and received as many answers. He finally decided that "A lady is a woman who makes a man behave like a gentleman." A Surfeit of Honey is a small book and one you will enjoy every step of the way.

James Michener, of South Pacific fame, has written a book about the Hungarian uprising which he called The Bridge at Andau. This is the terrible story of the Communist treatment of the Hungarian people and of their almost unbelievable struggle to rid themselves of their Communist overlords. In kindred strain we have Give Us This Day by Sidney Stewart. The author was a war prisoner of the Japanese for more than three years, existing under conditions of barbarism. This, too, is a terrible book. Mr. Stewart decided during his imprisonment that the Japanese were so different from us that they could not be judged by our accepted standards. Whether or not you can accept his philosophy, you will find this a most revealing book.

There are eight new novels this week, one of the eight being a re-issue of a book by John Collier which first appeared in 1931, but which is still in demand today. It is called His Monkey Wife, an improbable Novel. If you missed it when it first appeared, pick it up now because it is most amusing.

An outstanding collection of short stories by four writers is called simply Stories; the authors are Jean Stafford, John Cheever, Daniel Fuchs, and William Maxwell.

Other pieces of fiction for this week are The Homecoming Game by Nemerov, The Master by T. H. White, To Make a World by Morrison, The Seraglio by Merrill, The Spanish Bridegroom by Burford, and One Half of the World by Barlow. No mysteries this week, but we do have several on order.

Don't let this nice weather fool you. Books are still good companions.

CRADLE ROCKING AT ALL SAINTS' SUNDAY

A special Mother's Day observance will be held at All Saints' Episcopal Church Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock during the regular Family Service, when all babies born in the parish during the year will be rocked in a cradle.

After the babies have been rocked in the cradle, a replica of the one in the Robert Louis Stevenson House, they become members of the Cradle Roll until they are old enough to attend Sunday School.

Everyone is invited to the annual Cradle Rocking Service and to the Coffee Hour immediately following in the Parish Hall.

In Madonna Festival Show

Carmel artists exhibiting in the Annual Madonna Festival Show at the Wilshire Methodist Church in Los Angeles are Linford Donovan, Donald Teague and Nick Guastella. Maria Gratia Plena is the title of Linford Donovan's painting and Donald Teague is showing Desert Rest. Nick Guastella is exhibiting a Madonna executed in wood in the sculpture division.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The true status of man, created in the perfect image and likeness of God, Spirit, will be set forth at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Adam and Fallen Man."

Luke's account of one of Christ Jesus' healings will be included in the Scriptural readings (Luke 5:12,13): "And it came to pass, when he was in a certain city, behold a man full of leprosy: who seeing Jesus fell on his face, and besought him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. And he put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will: be thou clean. And immediately the leprosy departed from him."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy the following passage will be among those read (259:6-11): "The divine nature was best expressed in Christ Jesus, who threw upon mortals the truer reflection of God and lifted their lives higher than their poor thought-models would allow, thoughts which presented man as fallen, sick, sinning, and dying."

Everybody Kicks At Hike In License Fees

similar device, on hand to kick. Nor was there anybody present to protest the $100 per day fee "for any person, firm or corporation conducting, managing or carrying on or exhibiting a circus or trained animal show, or any side-show or similar entertainment or exhibition."

But when the council came to the ceiling which they propose to lift on tax for gross receipts over $100,000 a year, the rafters rang.

Under the old ordinance if your gross receipts were $90,000.00 to $100,000 a year you paid $100. Over $100,000 you could make as much as you wished tax free. You could gross a million, your tax would still be $100. The council thought the time had come to do something about this. They proposed to lift the ceiling in the following manner:

Over $100,000 and not over $120,000, the tax shall be $120 per year. Over $120,000 and not over $140,000, the tax shall be $140 per year. Over $140,000 and not over $160,000, the tax shall be $160 per year. Over $160,000 and not over $180,000, the tax shall be $180 per year. Over $180,000, the annual tax shall be $180 plus $20.00 for each $20,000 that said gross sales exceed $180,000.

This means that a business grossing a million a year would have to pay $1000 city license fee. J. O. Handley, owner of Carmel Building Supply said that was too much. He admitted that $100 was too little, but he said there had to be a ceiling somewhere and proposed that the maximum tax should be $400 a year, and gross on government jobs be counted out because it is awfully hard to make any money out of the government.

Even the $400 ceiling looked too big to the grocers present: Walt Pilot, who owns Pilot Market; Richard Zoellin, Drive-In Market; Earl McCaman, Thrift Market; C. W. Holman of Purity Stores. They pointed out that the margin of profit in the grocery business is very small. Frank Putnam of Putnam & Raggett put in a word for the drygoods business. Howard Quinan represented the interests of Comstock Associates.

August Nieto, president of the Carmel Business Association, not taking sides, asked a question: "Is the purpose of the business license tax regulatory or revenue raising?"

The council assured him it was both. That the license fees haven't been changed since 1940, but city costs have, the budget jumping from $116,000 five years ago to the present $325,000. They added that the gross receipts basis of taxation is basically fair because the bigger the business the bigger strain it puts on the city services. The council had levied a half-cent and then a cent sales tax, and increased property taxes. Did the merchants present think the council should increase property taxes again?

Walt Pilot had an answer: "It's time you start cutting costs. Instead of thinking where you can get more money, you've got to think of economy."

He was willing to pay $300 business license tax, he said. But anything more would be "an outrage." Other grocers concurred that $300 ceiling would be all right. "We live here. We're willing to pay our share."

Then Mr. Pilot got everybody mad when he said: "The reason our taxes are so high is the council doesn't encourage industry to come here like they do in San Jose. Industry helps pay taxes."

"When industry comes here, I move out," roared Councilman Carl Patnude. "I'm willing to pay more taxes not to have them." There were murmurs of agreement around the council table and in the audience.

Then City License Collector Arthur Plaxton and City Clerk Lawrence Rose came up with a modified schedule of fees on gross receipts over $100,000 namely: $7.50 for each $10,000 over $100,000 up to $200,000; thence $5.00 per $10,000 up to $300,000 then $2.50 per $10,000 (still no ceiling.)

Mayor Horace Lyon said it was 11:00 o'clock. He didn't think the council could be at its best if it continued study on the ordinance. They would set a time for another session at Wednesday night's meeting. He called for adjournment.

Meanwhile from the people in the middle, whose gross receipts range from $30,000 to $100,000 and who are scheduled for over 33 percent license fees increase, has come not one bleat of protest.

and the State of California, in matters which pertain to the public health, safety and welfare of the community and to the proper development of Carmel Point.

All persons owning homes or home sites on Carmel Point are eligible for membership and will be receiving notices about it through the mail at an early date.

Mission Fields residents took first steps in forming a Mission Fields Property Owners Association on Tuesday night when they met in Carmel High School Library and appointed an organizing committee composed of Dr. James M. Rodda, chairman; Dr. Harold Funk, vice-chairman; Louis R. Rudolph, secretary, and Al Weber, treasurer.

Chosen to frame by-laws were Maynard C. Petersen, Dr. James E. Gilman and A. B. Clubb. Serving on the fire district investigation committee are Raymond T. Gere, Daniel H. Souza and Al Weber.

Nancy To Be A Nurse

Nancy Ward Sheldon, senior at Carmel High School, was a happy girl yesterday when informed she had been accepted for training in St. Luke's Hospital for Nurses in San Francisco. She will begin her nurse's training next fall.

Jim could pour his concrete on that . . . it certainly needs something done to it, they said.

After that, Mr. Buffington approached his second major street improvement proposal with extreme pessimism. Eighth street from Junipero to Mountain View.

This lovely, woodsy, unspoiled, several blocks of street meandering through the heart of the Old Eighty Acres, is "so rough you can hardly drive over it," said Mr. Buffington, pointing out the advantage to free flow of traffic if it were paved, straightened, curbed and guttered like the rest of Eighth Street.

"Of course it's rough," said the Mayor of Eighty Acres. "I go out in the dark of the moon and dig pot holes in it to keep it that way."

"Little kids walk on it on their way to Sunset School. You want them to get run down in a free flow of traffic," demanded another member of the audience.

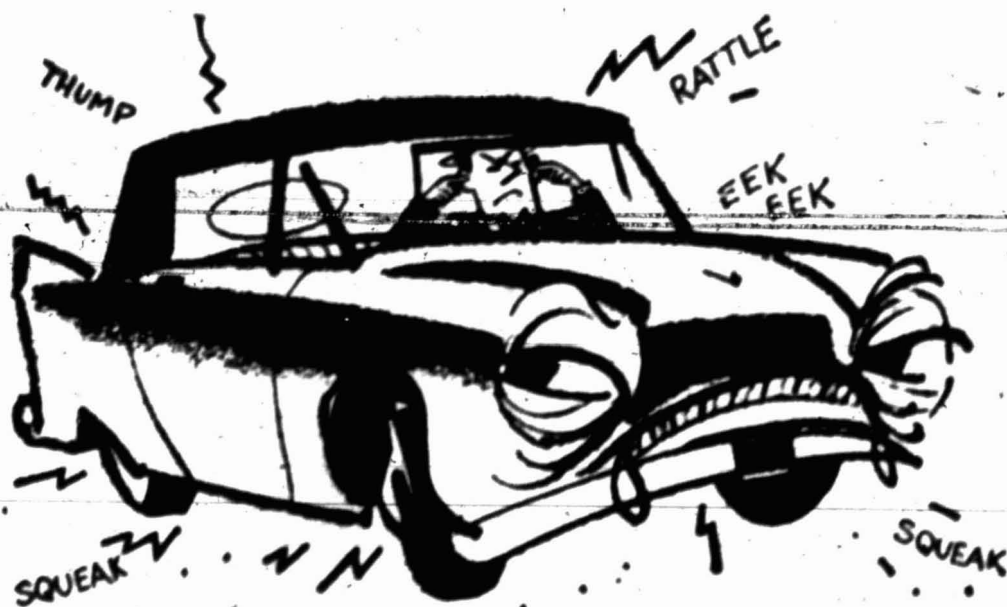

The council recommended that Mr. Buffington work out another major street improvement plan for next year, forgetting the few remaining attractive streets in town and concentrating on heavy-traffic business streets that might need re-doing, like Ocean Avenue.

Council set next Wednesday, May 15, 7:30 o'clock for further struggle with the new business license ordinance.

May 21 was selected as the date for the high school students to sit as city council for a night.

INJURED IN FLYING CAR

Michael J. Roach, 27, of Fort Ord received major injuries at 4:43 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the car he was driving left the Lower Carmel Valley road in front of the sawmill, skidded, took to the air clearing a five foot fence, rolled, took to the air again and finally rolled, a total wreck, into the driveway of the W. T. Branson home, 428 feet distant from where the car left the road.
